

Your editor spent Tuesday in Little Rock and found U. S. 67 jammed with the rising tide of spring and summer tourists.

It reminded me of the opportunity for fine national publicity that we are overlooking simply because neither our town nor our neighbors have gotten around to setting up a tourist information service to promote the natural attractions of the whole southwestern corner of Arkansas.

As one who has traveled over most of the United States I can tell you our lineup of potential tourist lures is far superior to that of many areas which have promoted what little they have into something that is commercially big. We simply haven't organized ourselves and advertised.

If you would forget for the moment that this is Arkansas we are talking about and itemize the undeveloped attractions as belonging to some other corner of the U. S. A. you would exclaim: "That's the place for my next vacation!"

We have in this immediate area: Alligators, Genuine diamonds, Blue-water lakes, And mountains up to 2,340 feet high.

As a fugitive from Pennsylvania some 30 years ago I have spent a generation arguing angrily with friends and relatives who come here and scoff: "Alligators in Arkansas? You're crazy! Alligators are Florida's line."

They tell this to me — a character who has personally photographed 15-footers not half an hour's drive from Hope. Thus do we measure the ignorance of the outside world — and the extent of our failure to promote this region before the eyes of the hundreds of thousands of vacationers who every spring and summer travel through the heart of our town on U. S. 67.

Perhaps I should advertise personally for some Florida expert to come up here and open a tourist exhibit with native Arkansas alligators. Some of the local boys used to go down on Red Lake and practice the sport of lassoing alligators.

You ask me if this is important? Well, I'll tell you one thing for sure: An alligator show is a crowd-stopper. Other areas that have these critters shout the news to every passing automobile. But here — thousands of people drive through and never know — because we didn't tell 'em.

And the Narrows Lake and spots like Camp Albert Pike and Tall Peak (elevation 2,340 feet) in the area north of us, only an hour to an hour and a half's drive, are potential places of paradise to thousands of vacationers from the rest of the country east of us and dry Texas to our west. But they have to be told before they can know.

What southwest Arkansas needs is a regional tourist-promotion organization such as the Ozarks group which operates in southern Missouri and our northern counties.

We need a single master pictorial map. We need effective co-operation between all the gate-way towns to regulate the map and grab tourists off the highways and route them through the mountain-lake region.

Obviously this would call for common action by such towns as our own, Texarkana, DeQueen, Mena, Washington, Nashville, Murfreesboro, Glenwood, and Prescott. Each of them has an opportunity to intercept tourists and hold vacation spending a few days longer for our state.

It will be argued that up in the mountains there are limited facilities for tourists at present. But that's the usual excuse of plain old inertia. There has to be a starting point for every program. And our starting point is a master map and some energetic people in nine or ten towns to push its circulation and get the tourist diversion under way. The facilities will follow — and once investment gets under way the advertising promotion is automatic.

Scientists Setting Up New Blast

HONOLULU, (UP) — Atomic scientists at the Pacific proving ground were busy today setting up the next shot in this year's test series but they made it plain they won't talk much about them.

Before leaving the proving ground yesterday for Honolulu and home, newsmen who witnessed the first two explosions in the 1956 series were told few details will be given out about the rest of the tests.

There will be in all about 10 shots, ranging in size from the multi-megaton hydrogen explosion like the air drop of last Monday at Bikini to explosions of compact warheads of comparatively weak power.

The big tests are taking place this year at Bikini and the others at Eniwetok. Newsmen saw the shot towers at Eniwetok for at least seven more low yield explosions.

Had the May 21 blast taken place right over Washington, D.C., for example, it probably would have killed 85 per cent of the capital's residents.

Kiwians See Film on Public Safety

George Frazier was in charge of the weekly program Tuesday of the Kiwanis club at Hotel Barlow, presenting a motion picture film, "The Album of Public Safety," which depicted various devices of electrical appliances as precautionary measures in holding down fire losses.

Guests of the club were Bill Dickey of Little Rock, and Roy Taylor of Hope.

Schools Form Committee to Determine Need

Following a panel discussion last night of the aims and purpose of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Education local school districts set up a County Committee with Mrs. Frank King as Chairman, Arch Wylie, co-chairman; Harrell Hall, vice-chairman; and Thurston Hulsey, secretary. School groups also set up district committees.

The new County Committee immediately made plans to appoint a committee to go into the schools and ascertain the needs and determine the approximate cost of those needs.

George Frazier acted as moderator. Miss Amy Jane Greene, Henderson State Teachers College, was a member of the panel along with Thurston Hulsey former legislator and superintendent of Washington School, Linda Moore, high school student who plans to enter the teaching profession, Mrs. W. J. Grove, secretary of the Saline County GACE committee and Dave McKay, Magnolia, a member of the Governor's committee. State Chairman of GACE Lee Roy Beasley of El Dorado, did not take part.

Miss Greene opened the discussion by outlining the teacher supply situation in Arkansas. Miss Moore told the approximately 125 present that she planned to teach in Arkansas, feeling that she owed the State for her education.

Mr. McKay told of the organization of GACE and explained that the county groups' job was to get the program before the people. So far GACE has not determined a program but hoped to have a plan by August 1. This legislative plan, said Mr. McKay, would be taken from reports of county groups who have determined their needs, the cost and suggestions on how to finance those needs.

Much of the discussion was devoted to financing such a recommended program by increasing assessments on the local level, increase of sales tax, the political impact, an appointed tax assessor, etc.

Members of the panel emphasized that no program could be forthcoming until after recommendations and needs be submitted to the state committee for study.

Says Trend Now Is Rolling Readjustment

HOT SPRINGS (UP)—The current period was described as one of "rolling readjustment" by Dr. Charles E. Walker, an economist for the Republic National Bank of Dallas, here yesterday.

In an address to the Arkansas Bankers Association, Dr. Walker defined his description as that of a period in which there are cutbacks in some industries and expansion in others.

On the whole he said he thought the outlook was good for business and banking.

The ABA concludes its annual convention today after election and installation of new officers. It is expected that Vice President H. C. Adams of De Witt will be advanced to the presidency to succeed retiring President Herbert A. Lewis of Fayetteville.

Two of the Southland's Great Claims to Fame Are Grits and Southern Womanhood

By HAL BOYLE
CONNLEY'S CREEK, N. C. (UP)—Two of the Southland's greatest claims to fame are grits and Southern womanhood.

The exact virtues of each remain something of a mystery to the rest of the country, so on a trip here I decided to find out the answers to these puzzles as my special public service for 1956.

Now, that my researchers are over, I'm not sure whether I am any less confused than when I began.

Let's take grits first. Like most people I had assumed you mined grits, just as you do salt or coal. Well, it turns out that isn't true at all. No one knows just what old myth got started.

"Grits come from corn," explained my host at breakfast one morning. "They're just hominy ground up and cooked. There just ain't any food better than country ham, red-eye gravy and good old grits. Have some."

Movie Bandit Escapes at Fort Smith

FORT SMITH (UP)—A blue jeans-clad gunman staged a daylight robbery of a downtown theater here yesterday, and escaped pursuit by several aroused citizens.

Police Lt. Clyde Grisby said today a 2-state alarm had been issued for the bandit who held three women employees at the Garrison Avenue theater at gun point.

The curly-haired, unshaven bandit entered the Malco Theater about 4:45 p. m., robbed the box office of $184 and took $2 belonging to a woman employee.

Janice Hicks said she was working in the theater office when the man entered and at pistol point ordered her to "give me your money."

Miss Hicks said she told the man there was no money in the office safe. While she was talking to him, she said, another employee, Nancy Williams, entered the office holding out $2 she owed Miss Hicks.

The bandit grabbed the $2 and marched the two women to the box office, saying "I don't care who I shoot so stay close in front of me."

Miss Hicks said she entered the box office, in which Marjorie Sykes was working, and handed the bandit the day's receipts in bills and coins.

As the man ran out a side entrance, he passed the manager of the theater, H. M. Young. Young, informed of the robbery by the women, shouted "Stop that man, he's robbed us!"

The bandit, fleeing in his getaway car parked about a block away, was chased by three private cars. However, the pursuers lost the robber after a few blocks when the getaway car disappeared down an alley.

Police said the license number, copied by the pursuers, did not belong to the car on which it was attached.

Faubus Undecided on Campaign Opening

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Gov. Orval Faubus says he hasn't decided whether he'll open his campaign for Democratic nomination to a second term, but he doesn't think it'll be at Fayetteville again.

Fayetteville was where the governor kicked off his successful campaign for nomination in 1954.

Faubus, who has four opponents for renomination, said yesterday he probably would begin active campaigning about July 1.

"Wear a poppy Saturday in evidence of your gratitude to the men who fought and died in defense of our freedom," Mrs. Hamm declared.

Truman Denies Saying Landing Unnecessary

NAPLES, Italy (UP)—Harry S. Truman disclaimed today the comments attributed to him concerning the Anzio-Salerno beachhead — and added he's embarrassed about the whole affair.

Reporters accompanying Truman on his tour through Italy quoted him yesterday as saying the two World War II landings were unnecessary "and planned by some squirrel-headed general," not named.

The developments followed: 1. The controversy over the landings, previously criticized in Congress and elsewhere, took on new life. Gen. Mark W. Clark, 5th Army commander in the landings, said he had just followed orders. A British commander accused Truman of talking nonsense.

2. Truman's secretary said the former president made "a complete denial" of the quotations attributed to him yesterday. Fred Zuss, AP correspondent who filed yesterday's story, said Truman's comment "was reported exactly as he said it." A reporter for the United Press filed a similar story, and also stood by it today.

3. President Eisenhower said he and his wartime staff did not favor carrying out the Anzio beach landing exactly as it was done, but that he does not think it could be called a failure. He said it would be a long story to tell who planned the operation.

4. Truman himself spoke to the reporters of three major news services, several hours after his secretary had issued the denial. He was asked to comment on "the complete denial."

"I would make no comment like that," said Truman, referring to the quotations attributed to him.

"I had been listening to the conversation of several people who had been there. I am sorry about it."

"But it's a very embarrassing situation and I hope you'll clear it up."

"I don't want to embarrass anybody, especially the people who are with me and reporting on me. I never scold anybody when things don't go straight so I wish you would clear it up."

In his original account of the remarks, the AP correspondent accompanying Truman quoted him as saying he didn't know who planned the Italian landings but "there were a lot of easier places that could have been picked."

Eugene Bailey secretary to Truman, told Zuss today: "The President makes a complete denial of the quoted statement that he termed the Salerno and Anzio landings 'totally unnecessary and planned by some squirrel-headed general.' That was not the President's statement. He never told you that."

We think that Egypt is mistaken, the President asserted. Then he went on to say that no single act by a nation destroy U. S. efforts to cooperate with it. It would be inconsistent with the security of the United States to say to another government this is the end because of one action.

The comments of Mr. Eisenhower at Dulles were the first words of public reproach by this government toward the policies of Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

13 Cases of Polio in State This Year

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—One new case of polio was reported in Arkansas last week, bringing the year's total to 13 compared to 25 cases reported during the corresponding period of 1955.

The state Board of Health said the case last week was reported in Miller County.

House Receives Senate-Passed Farm Measure

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON (UP)—A new farm bill, whittled down more nearly to President Eisenhower's pattern than one he vetoed April 16, headed for unenthusiastic House passage today.

Although unsatisfactory to many members, its quick passage was predicted by Democratic House Leader McCormack and Republican Leader Martin, both of Massachusetts.

Farm leaders predicted Eisenhower would sign the bill, shouted through the Senate late yesterday as a compromise of Senate-House proposals.

It is the third time the House has been called on to vote on legislation new farm legislation in this Congress.

Last year, it passed a bill to junk the administration's flexible price support program and replace it with rigid supports. The Senate loaded that bill with a score or more additional features, most of which the House accepted. When Eisenhower vetoed it, the House upheld his action.

The present bill abandons most of the provisions Eisenhower termed objectionable in the earlier one. It includes the key feature of his 1956 farm program—a $1,200,000,000 soil bank to pay farmers subsidies for taking crop land out of production in the hope of reducing surpluses.

Both the Senate and the House refused to give him authority he asked, when he vetoed the previous bill, to pay farmers this year up to $600 million dollars for promising to put land in the soil bank in 1957.

The present bill was agreed to yesterday by Senate-House conferees assigned to resolve differences in separate versions approved by the two branches.

Biggest administration victory in the compromise bill was a softening of House provisions for price supports on the feed grains—oats, rye, barley and sorghums.

Says Egypt Made Mistake on Red China

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that the United States believes Egypt made a mistake in recognizing Red China.

But Mr. Eisenhower emphasized that this one act by the strategic Middle East nation does not by any means mean the United States will be unable or unwilling to continue its effort to cooperate with it.

The President thus strongly backed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles who yesterday deplored Egypt's apparently increasing moves toward the Communist side in the East-West struggle.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked at his news conference to comment on Egypt's decision to recognize the Red Chinese regime and terminate diplomatic relations with Nationalist China.

We think that Egypt is mistaken, the President asserted. Then he went on to say that no single act by a nation destroy U. S. efforts to cooperate with it. It would be inconsistent with the security of the United States to say to another government this is the end because of one action.

The comments of Mr. Eisenhower at Dulles were the first words of public reproach by this government toward the policies of Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Defense Men to Visit Shumaker

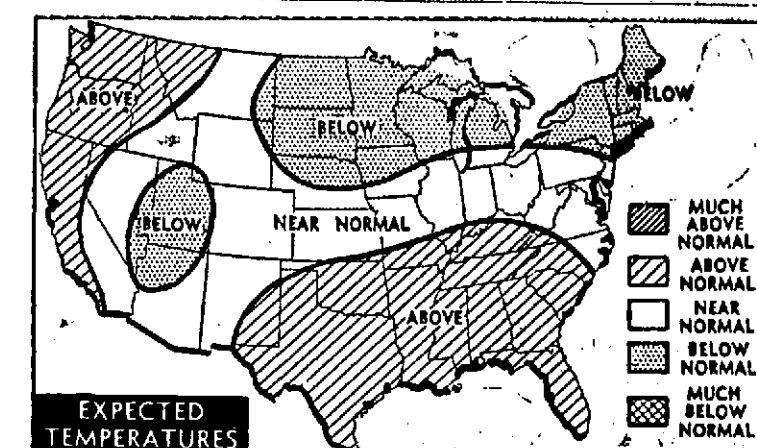

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Naval Ammunition Depot at Shumaker, Ark., whose closing Arkansas interests are trying to prevent, will be inspected by a group of Defense Department officials Friday and Saturday, June 8 and 9.

The group will leave Washington Friday afternoon and return Saturday. The party will include Thomas P. Pike, Secretary of Air Assistant, Secretary of Defense Thomas P. Pike, Secretary of Air Donald Quarles, a native Arkansan, and other representatives of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

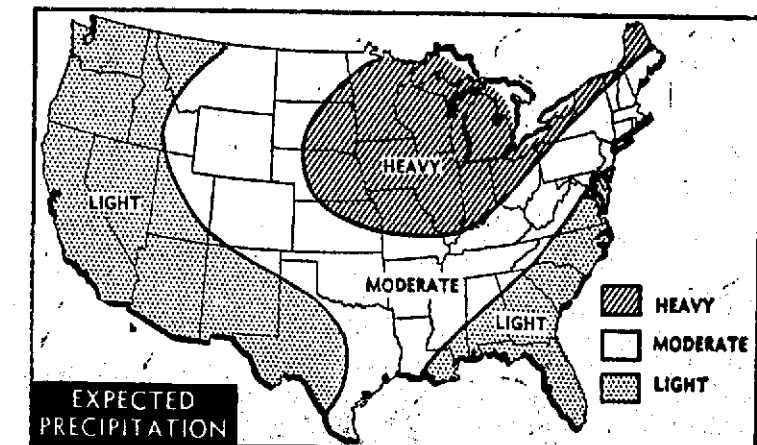

The plant, built during the World War II period, has been turning out Air Force rockets under contract with a civilian manufacturer. The Air Force says it doesn't need any more rockets of the size being manufactured at Shumaker and as a result, it has been announced that the plant will be on a standby basis next March.

Arkansans, including civic leaders from Camden, near Shumaker, and members of the Arkansas congressional delegation have been trying to forestall the closing by persuading defense officials that the plant is suitable for other necessary uses.

Duty of Various Armed Services to Argue With Themselves, Ike Says

Temperatures until mid-June will generally range above seasonal normals in the southeastern quarter of the nation and in the West Coast states. Below normal temperatures are expected over the Great Lakes region, the northeast, the northern plains and the central plateau.

Precipitation until mid-June will be heavy in the Missouri and Mississippi valleys and in the Great Lakes region. Light rainfall is expected west of the Continental Divide and in the southeast.

But Decision of President Should End Controversy

BY JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON, (UP)—President Eisenhower said today leaders of the various armed services have a duty to argue vigorously among themselves over defense strategy.

But once the President makes his decision, he said, any officer who fails to support it is not fit for command.

The day discipline disappears from the military, he said, the nation will have no armed forces worthy of mention.

The President, speaking with a light-lipped intensity devoted to a large part of his news conference to a discussion of the new public outbreak of interservice feuding at the Pentagon.

The latest dispute revolves largely around the merits of various service weapons, and their respective roles in any future war. Speaking in clipped, emphatic sentences, continued on Page Two.

New Atomic Weapon Is Revealed

BY BARRY TRIMBLE

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M. (UP)—Army and Air Force experts have revealed the existence of the "southern New Mexico desert of the military organization designed to develop an atomic warhead to a guided missile."

The disclosure came as the Army demonstrated its operational guided missiles before 116 newsmen here.

A briefing officer said there is a special weapons section of the Army Ordnance Department at White Sands. The mission of this section, he said, is to determine the capability of the various operational rockets to carry atomic warheads.

The Army did not disclose whether any of the operational missiles are equipped with atomic warheads. It insisted the tests are solely for engineering and field-test purposes, although involving operational models.

The demonstration of several types of rockets was staged as a nationwide controversy continued over the military arm's guided missile program.

Fears Toll Will Kill Inland Waterway

MEMPHIS (UP)—A Baton Rouge, La., executive says inland waterway transportation may be killed if the industry is saddled with tolls and user charges.

Addressing a banquet last night which marked the city's observance of National Maritime Day, Roland Vincent Baillie said:

"By specious argument by half truths and by false analogies, public opinion is being molded to the belief that the inland waterway industry is the direct beneficiary of a paternalistic national attitude which is unfair and detrimental to other forms of transportation."

The Hoover Commission recommended tolls and user charges in 1953. Baillie said the recommendation had not been put into effect "because of the effective opposition of those who are dedicated to the development of inland waterway transportation."

He predicted an even more vigorous effort "would be made in the present Congress to put the toll program through."

Baillie is member of the Western Rivers Branch, Inland Waterways, Esso Standard Oil Co.

LITTLE LIZ

Ark-La Warns Plants Not on Contract

LITTLE ROCK (Special)—The Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company has advised the industries which have not yet signed contracts for gas for industrial use at the increased rates recently authorized that during the coming winter gas deliveries to them may be curtailed or entirely discontinued during periods of deep demands in order to supply the needs of domestic, commercial and preferred industrial customers.

One of the companies receiving this notice states that under Act 324 of 1955, it is unlawful for a utility to charge or for a customer to pay for gas sold at a rate different from the rate for the service then on file with the Public Service Commission and also prohibiting a utility from discriminating in service to customers of the same class.

It was not stated whether this notice would be protested to the Public Service Commission or not. The contract signed by some of the industrial users provides an agreement to purchase gas for a period of two and a half years at the rate established by the Public Service Commission and for the succeeding two and a half years at a price providing for a further two and a half cent increase. In addition, the signer agrees to purchase a minimum quantity of gas during each year and upon failure to do so agrees to pay the contract price for gas which he fails to use under the minimum in his contract.

Takes Dismissal to Circuit Court

LITTLE ROCK (U)—Dr. Frances Brenneke has taken her dismissal as director of the State Welfare Department's Crippled Children's Division to the Pulaski Circuit Court.

She appealed yesterday from refusal of the Merit System Council to set aside her discharge by Welfare Commissioner Carl Adams and her replacement by Dr. Eley C. Gay of Little Rock.

Says Doctor's Belief in God

MEMPHIS (U)—The head of the American Medical Association says belief in God is the doctor's ally.

"Unless a man believes in a power greater than himself, he had no right to practice the healing art," Dr. Elmer Mess of Erie, Pa., told University of Tennessee medical students yesterday.

"There will come a time," the noted urologist said, "when all the scientific skills you have aren't going to be worth a tinker's dam."

Chances for Attack on U. S. Termed Slight

BY FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (U)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining — underlining the "deterrent effect of our long-range striking power" — said today he believes chances are "slight" for an air attack on the United States.

However, Twining, Air Force chief of staff, said the Russian air force's long-range attack fleet is "becoming an increasing menace" and that "regardless of how strong our deterrent force, we can never be sure that a potential enemy will not attack."

In a speech prepared for the Civil Air Patrol's National Bond, Twining made no mention of the interservice rivalry which mushroomed to the surface over the weekend.

Two Senate subcommittees are preparing to investigate the service quarrel which Secretary of Defense Wilson reported yesterday has made President Eisenhower "a bit unhappy."

Wilson, who has been seeking to minimize the importance of the Army-Air Force-Navy squabbling, may have been warning that he has called "eager beaver" officers when he told newsmen yesterday.

"We'll see who sticks their head up next. I think it might be a little dangerous."

In New York yesterday, Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said in a talk with reporters that the Joint Chiefs are basically "pretty much in agreement."

But Decision of

tones that recalled his own back-ground as a five-star general, Mr. Eisenhower made these points:

—The nation is in a period of constant and rapid change in military weapons and strategy. If this does not produce "fitting arguments" among military leaders about the safest strategy to follow, then "I would be frightened indeed." What makes him unhappy sometimes is "the way these arguments are conducted."

—It is the tradition of the military for a staff officer to "fight vigorously for his point of view." This is his duty. But when a decision is reached all "must loyally support it." In this way, debates over strategy can be carried out in "a way that doesn't alarm everybody else."

The President said that, as commander-in-chief, he has final responsibility for decisions.

He said he has told the civilian secretaries and chiefs of staff that they are welcome to come directly to his office if they have "anything on their chests." If they fail to do so, he added, it is their own fault.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked if he will permit military officers to testify freely and candidly before two Senate subcommittees which have announced plans to investigate the new interservice feud.

The President said he has no objections to an officer giving his "personal opinion" when asked if, at the same time, he displays loyalty to higher decisions. Any officer who fails to display such loyalty, he said, is "unfit to keep command."

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, after a conference with the President yesterday, said Mr. Eisenhower was "a bit unhappy" over the fact that the latest dispute had boiled into public print.

Mr. Eisenhower emphasized to newsmen that interservice differences are not unusual. Controversies over roles and missions, he said, have been "going on since I joined the Army in 1911."

The President was asked about a statement by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) that a Senate subcommittee will study the roles and missions of the armed forces.

Mr. Eisenhower curtly replied: "If he carries out his duty I'll carry out mine."

Sen. Denis Chave (D-N.M.) has announced that his Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee also will "look into this mess" — the interservice dispute.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a member of Symington's subcommittee, charged that Wilson is encouraging the controversy by sweeping the squabble "under the rug."

The Washington Democrat said Wilson's "failure to act" brought about an "interservice collision" over who has primary responsibility for anti-aircraft missile defense of the nation.

Tyronza Will Host National Figures

TYRONZA, Ark., May 23 (UP)—This East Arkansas cotton town, with a population of about 650, will be the site of an unprecedented collection of national figures from the fields of medicine, politics, religion and education tomorrow, when three districts of the Arkansas Medical Society meet in a circus tent.

In pursuance of a theme on "Our American Faith," a list of outstanding speakers will move away from discussions of the material to dwell on subjects such as perseverance, bravery and sacrifice.

The combined meeting of the first, second and third districts of the AM S has been carefully planned for two years under the direction of the organization's immediate past president, Dr. L. H. McDaniel of Tyronza.

The Kaleidoscopic intent and agenda are described by Dr. McDaniel as the "most outstanding program in Arkansas medical history" and the "most unusual" in the history of American medicine.

Designed for medical students from the Universities of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee, the meeting also will honor last and present officers of several organizations. These include the American Medical Association, the AMA auxiliary, the Arkansas Medical Society, the Arkansas Academy of General Practitioners, the Southern Medical Association, the American Pharmaceutical Association, the American Hospital Association, the Arkansas Education Association and the Memphis and Shelby County Medical Societies.

Representing the political field will be four speakers from Arkansas: Gov. Orval E. Faubus, Senators John L. McClellan and J. William Fulbright and Representatives Brooks Hays and E. C. Gathings. Congressman Walter Judd of Minnesota's Fifth District, a physician and former missionary to China, will be among those awarded citations.

Only 19 of America's 100 largest cities on wells for public water supply.

"I think the Air Force and the Army are combining to realize the importance of naval power in their own operations," Burke said. "We also realize the importance of the Army and the Air Force."

Scotland Yard Is Guarding the Duke

LONDON. — (UP) — Three plainclothesmen of Scotland Yard's secret special branch have taken over the Duke of Edinburgh's regular bodyguard to protect him against a rumored assassination plot by the Cypriot underground, it was learned today.

Authoritative sources said the top special agents were assigned to guard the husband of the queen late last week during an overall shakeup of security plans.

They accompanied the duke on a tour of British naval stations late last week and are now in charge of security at Balmoral castle, Scotland, where Queen Elizabeth and her husband and their two children are vacationing.

my host. That, I gather is the real secret. Personally, I'm afraid I was born 5 years too late.

Now about Southern womanhood. What makes it so extra special?

"We have the prettiest girls in the world," explained one man I asked. "The father South you go the prettier they get. That is, they do until you reach Atlanta. Below Atlanta the quality thins out some."

That didn't seem to be the whole answer. So I asked two young ladies—Mary and Margie—they insisted I not use their last names—what they thought was the difference between Northern and Southern girls.

"There is a coldness about Northern girls," said Mary, who is married. "They aren't as warm or talkative when you meet them. They are more aloof."

"Yes," said Margie, who is single. "And Northern girls are surer of themselves. They know exactly what they want. They have definite opinions on everything. And they know how to chase a man. My, I wouldn't know even how to begin."

Mary arched her eyebrows at this as she glanced over at Margie, but said nothing.

"Southern girls are much less aggressive," continued Margie. "Our menfolks don't like us to speak out too much. You want to know what Northern girls have most that Southern girls would like to have? Well—men and money. And some of them are our men. There's a shortage of men in the South. Too many of them grow up and go North."

"But aren't Southern girls better at cooking and sewing?" I inquired.

"I can't sew or make my own dresses, but I can cook some things," Margie said.

"What?"

"Darn it," said Margie, blushing. "Did you have to ask that?"

One thing both Mary and Margie agreed on—that Southern girls are more romantic, and more loyal to their men.

Later, still unsatisfied that I had solved the secret of Southern womanhood's charm, I put the question to an elderly Southerner.

"First, let me close the door," he said. Then, sure he couldn't be overheard, he said:

"Son, I did a lot of traveling as a young man. The only difference between courting a Southern and a Northern girl is that the Southern girl can chase you harder without your even knowing she's after you. Your even knowing she's after you is a disadvantage."

"There isn't any real difference in 'em after you marry except this: A Southern girl bawls you out in a softer voice. But, as she speaks slower, it takes her longer to get through."

"The one thing you can be sure of is this: Whether you marry a Northern or a Southern girl you'll find each has a long memory of what a man does wrong."

"But if you quote me on this I'll denounce you as a liar. I don't want to be tarred and feathered and run out of town."

Everybody clear on Southern womanhood?

on, "Our Hands" telling of the different ways we can be of service. A handkerchief shower was given to Mrs. Nathan Killebrew, who is moving from this city. Names were then drawn by the circle members for Secret Pals.

The heart-shaped diamond is the newest diamond cut for this year's bride. It is a true heart-shape. Diamonds called heart-shape in the past were actually pear or triangular-shaped. It takes both a plump diamond and expert cutting to achieve the heart-shape. But the result combines sentiment with quality.

DOROTHY DIX

Both Sides Of In-Law Question Drop One-Sided Correspondence You're Being Taken!

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was greatly interested in a recent letter to you outlining a slew of problems presented by a daughter-in-law. Needless to say, a mother-in-law wrote the letter. Did it ever occur to her that perhaps she, too, was partly in the wrong and that a little consideration would have assured cooperation from the younger woman?

"For most of my married life I was made miserable by my husband's mother, who disapproved of me in the first place, and never would take the trouble to understand me or my problems. Eventually my mother-in-law realized her mistakes and we have been happy since."

"Mothers want their sons to stay single, and it would take a paragraph to win their approval. What wife wants to break the tie between mother and son? I'm sure wives desire nothing but love and peace, which the mother-in-law does her best to destroy."

Dear Imogene: Whew, this is hard to take! I don't quite buy your picture of daughters-in-law as being universal martyrs, nor your portrayal of mothers-in-law as demons. You see I happen to serve presently in both capacities.

I can't completely whitewash either partner to this troublesome in-law problem, nor, certainly, would I put all the blame for friction on either party. There are good and bad in both and when the bad predominates in either, it can really be troublesome.

When a mother clings too tenaciously to her son, or a wife takes drastic steps to cut former ties completely, there's bound to be trouble. The party at fault may be mother or wife. The best advice I can give you is: Learn from your difficulties. When you become a mother-in-law, make it a good relationship and hope your daughter-in-law returns the consideration.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a very young girl but deep down in my heart I believe in love. I started writing a boy overseas and, though I wrote for about two months, I haven't heard a word from him. Should I keep trying?

Dear Kitten: I hope you'll never grow old enough to lose that deep-down belief in love. However, a one-sided correspondence is a most unsatisfactory experience. I suggest you stop the letter-writing and use the energy to cultivate local friendships.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm separated from my husband and in love with a married man. He claims to love me very much and says he hates his wife. His only excuse for remaining with her is that her religion forbids divorce. He also says that he can't go on with her much longer. If he does leave her, will he still date me and possibly marry me?

Dear Heartsick: All religions frown on divorce in varying degrees. So hiding behind a church is a very convenient dodge for the husband who wants to err so far, but go further.

Your friend has a very comfortable love affair with you, which can be terminated (and will be) at his convenience. As for your feelings—well, he really didn't expect you to take him so seriously! Or so he'll say.

Snoddy Opens Campaign Next Week

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gubernatorial candidate Jim Snoddy said today that he would open up one of two rooms in the Grady Manning Hotel here next week as campaign headquarters.

The former state senator from Alma, Ark., said that the headquarters would be expanded on July 2. He said that he had not yet selected a campaign manager.

Snoddy who now runs an appliance store in Alma, dismissed rumors advanced by an Arkansas Democrat reporter that he planned to pull out of the race because expected support had failed to materialize.

"On the contrary," he said, "not only is my promised support coming through, but people had not expected to help me at all offering me support."

"I do not intend to run an expensive campaign and I am certain that I will have all of the finances I need for an adequate race."

Snoddy's first reaction when the rumored statement was advanced was a laugh and this comment: "I didn't know I was going to die that quick."

He added: "I think the people know me well enough that I wouldn't have gotten into this thing if I hadn't planned to fight it to a finish."

Governor Orval Faubus, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for a second term, and another former state senator, Jim Johnson of Crossett, have indicated that they will make full swings through the state.

Two other candidates, Ben Pippin of Little Rock and S. K. Prosser of Conway, have not announced their plans.

Military Fears Billion Cut Is Too Much

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) said today the Joint Chiefs of Staff feel a billion-dollar cut would force a major re-vamping of America's military aid program.

The statement by Vorys, a leading administration supporter on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, came as a drive was opened to restore the funds the committee yesterday decided to trim from the $4,900,000,000 foreign aid bill.

Secretary of Defense Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of staff went before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday and appealed for restoration of the full amount asked by President Eisenhower. The House still must act on the aid bill.

As Wilson left the closed session, he told newsmen "I don't think the people realize military assistance is an essential part of our defense."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he felt the House committee cut "entirely too much" from the aid bill. He said he would join in an attempt to restore much of the reduction. Counting actions last week on the economic aid sections of the bill, the House committee reduced the requested total by $1,109,000,000.

Fullmer Will Demand Shot at the Title

By JACK CUDDY
NEW YORK (UP) — Gene Fullmer, outstanding American contender for the middleweight crown, declared angrily today, "I'll demand the next title shot if I beat Charley Humez Friday night."

The bull-necked mining welder from West Jordan, Utah, added,
"and I'll have the backing of a millionaire to force the shot if Sugar Ray Robinson tries to defend against Carmen Basilio."

Twenty-four-year-old Fullmer emphasized that his outburst at Stilman's gymnasium did not mean he was taking a victory for granted over Humez of France at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

"But I want to clear the air before we get into the ring," he explained. "When Humez and I accepted this match, it was with the understanding that the winner would get the next title shot. Two got a lot of respect for Humez. I expect a hard fight, but I expect to win—and get the title fight if I was promised."

Humez is rated number one among the world's contenders; Fullmer, number two. But the betting was at "even money" today.
Utah Gene was incensed at Los Angeles reports after Champion
Robinson's latest knocking of Bobo Olson that Sugar Ray and his handlers were considering a defense against Basilio of Chittenango, N. Y., ex-welterweight champion.

The muscular contender in black trunks and white gym shirt said,
"I've already admired Basilio as a fine welterweight with plenty of heart. But he's only a 160-pounder. What right has he to step up into our division and challenge?"

Manager Marv Jensen agreed heartily with Gene's protests. Jensen said, "If Gene BEATS Humez Friday night and Robinson tries to give him the run-around—with talk of the money he might get in a defense against Basilio, we'll stop him right there with the offer of a bigger-money fight in Salt Lake City (Utah)."

Summerlin Fights Carter Tonight

DETROIT (AP) — Johnny Sum-merlin puts an 11-fight winning streak on the line tonight at Detroit's Olympia when he engages young Harold Carter in a 10-round heavyweight elimination bout.

The 22-year-old Carter, who has had only 21 bouts was rushed in last Friday as a substitute for veteran Bob Satterfield of Chicago who withdrew because he said his elbow hurt. Michigan doctors could find nothing wrong with the elbow, but said there was no point in forcing Satterfield to fight.

Managers of both fighters say this is "the big chance" for the young heavyweights. It will be the first nationally televised (ABC, 8
p. m. CST) bout for each.

For the record, Summerlin has 29 victories, four losses and two draws in 35 fights. Carter has 18 victories, one loss and two draws in 21 fights.

Maglie to Retire After This Year
BROOKLYN (AP) — Sal Maglie said today he had made up his mind to quit baseball at the end of the season but all thoughts of retirement vanished with his sale to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The 39-year-old former Dodger killer joined his new club yesterday. He pitched batting practice a few hours after his arrival and reported his arm felt "better now than it has in three years."

The veteran right-hander, several days late in reporting due to the death of his father in Niagara Falls, N.Y., is scheduled to make his first start in a Brooklyn uniform against his former New York Giant teammates at the Polo Grounds Saturday.

A mainstay of the Giants' pitching staff for years, Sal felt out of place and, at times, useless with the Cleveland Indians, who purchased him last summer from the Giants. He said he feels more at home now that he is back in the National League.

"Al Lopez and the entire Cleveland organization were swell to me," Maglie said. "I have no complaints over the treatment they accorded me. It's just that I was overlooked so much. I felt like I was a sixth finger on a hand."

Besides, he said, there's no

Milwaukee Win Pushes Bums Into 4th Spot

BY ED WILKS
Of The Associated Press

It looks as if all Hank Aaron needed to shake loose from Milwaukee's list of slumplin' sluggers was a taste of Brooklyn pitching
— just as Dodger Manager Wall
Alston feared.

Aaron, the Braves' 22-year-old cloutier who hadn't been over .300 since the fourth game of the season, put himself right with a rousing four-for-five — a home run, double and two singles — as the National League — leading Braves pushed the Brooks into fourth place 7-3 last night. It was Henry's first four-hit game of the season and upped his average 31 points to .313.

In spring training, Aaron batted a jolting .552 against the world champs and Alston commented,
"What's more, he's likely to hit
.552 all season. That fellow really is terrific."

Last night's spree was Aaron's best yet in a slump-shaking drive in which he has hit safely in nine straight games.

His stickwork helped the Braves gain a 23-point edge over runner-up St. Louis. The Cardinals ended a three-game Pittsburgh winning streak 6-3 despite a home run, double and single by the Pirates' Dale Long, who gained the major league lead with a .411 bat mark. Cincinnati took over third, half a game ahead of the Brooks, by beating the New York Giants 6-3.

In the American, Detroit catcher Red Wilson hammered a two-run homer in the ninth to end six-game winning streaks by Whitey Ford and the New York Yankees 3-2. The Yanks retained their 2 1/2-game lead over second place Cleveland, however, as Boston beat the Indians 5-3. Kansas City beat Washington 6-1.

Aaron got the Braves started with a second-inning home run off Carl Erskine. Johnny Logan and Ed Matthews hit back-to-back homers after a two-out error for three unearned runs in the seventh off Clem Labine. He was chased in a two-run eighth.

The Cards beat the Bucs and Vern Law with a two-run seventh.
Stan Musial's second single scored the clincher as Herm Wehmeier, with an assist from Jackie Collum, won his first.

Rookie Frank Robinson, who also doubled and singled, and Roy McMillan hit two-run homers in the seventh to beat the Giants.
Ruben Gomez, Joe Nuxhall won his first against three Indians.

Tom Brewer tripped the Indians for the sixth straight time. He needed Dave Sisler's relief in the ninth, however. A two-run clout-er by Billy Goodman—his first homer since Sept. 18, 1954, a span of 184 games — provided Boston's edge. Early Wynn lost his second in six decisions.

Detroit didn't get a run for Frank Lary until the eighth after the young right-hander had stopped the Yanks on three singles following a four-single, two-run
New York first.

Rookie Troy Herriage gave Washington just three hits for his first major league victory.

Wants Ike to Vacation in Lowlands

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House physician says he would like to have President Eisenhower vacation this summer at a lower altitude than Colorado's.

"If it were left up to me," Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder said late yesterday, "I would prefer playing it on the conservative side."

Snyder emphasized that neither Eisenhower nor anyone else at the White House has discussed vacation plans with him. He talked with reporters as Eisenhower played first on the White House lawn to the biggest reception in which he has taken part since his heart attack in Denver last Sept. 24.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower each shook hands with 811 guests at their annual garden party for service veterans from Washington area hospitals. It took 43 minutes, and when the affair ended, Eisenhower remarked to Postmaster General Summerfield:

"This was the easiest of all these parties we've ever had." Eisenhower showed no outward sign of fatigue. Dr. Snyder said in advance of the reception that Eisenhower was in good physical condition and that all the handshaking would not tax his strength. Reporters brought up the matter of vacation. One wanted to know how Snyder would feel about Eisenhower going back to Colo-

Tall Drifter

By W. Edmunds Claussen

THE STORY: Frank Ude decides there is something strange about Emmett Cash, leader of a horsethief band. Ude decides, is a horse thief.

Chapter III

Frank Ude veered from the high rock escarpments and quartered across a cactus scarred desert where neither sign of recent horse track nor of man marked the terrain. He crossed at length into more fertile country, crossing up the winding channel of the Skull, and so came to the cross-roads of Cashtown. The place was a collection of frame and adobe shacks standing beneath the ledge of a pine-covered mountain. Constant dust devils raced back and forth as vagrant winds stirred the road's surface.

The place offered all the flavor of a cowtown with its two-story hotel on one corner and a galloping saloon opposite. Across the main street stood a row of wooden stores, a bank, an eating house, radio, where he has vacationed the last four years.

In reply that he would prefer a lower altitude, Snyder said some doctors "think a high altitude is bad, and some don't."

Eisenhower has left it up to the air, in talking publicly about the matter, as to whether he plans to return to Colorado.

a store displaying second-hand furniture and an odd collection of musical instruments. A slim, dark-haired man with somewhat classical features stood before the store front facing the hotel. He was dressed in black trousers and a dark shirt with a flowered necktie and Frank noted none of the marks of a cowman about him.

Frank's gelding had loosened a shoe on its forefoot on the creek up the Skull so that the first thing he did was hunt up a smithy. He found the shop on a side street, a weathered and warped building with a sign: Swenson's Blacksmith.

A pair of rusty cannon balls had been set into a narrow concrete slab beside the stable doors. Frank drew his gaze to the lumbering Swede wiping his forehead with a blackened arm on his apron.

"Gettysburg," the blacksmith imparted sparingly.

"So?" and now Frank's gaze returned to the cannon balls. "Is that where you got your limp?"

The Swede nodded. "Day after Lee's army retreated I walked over their artillery positions. That's all I found of Tom Carter's field pieces. When I stooped after the iron balls a sniper busted hole in my britches."

Swenson imparted this information without a break in his leathery face. Down the street of life man has his high points that remain aglow until the end, and Frank knew the episode of Colonel Carter's cannon balls was the apex of Swenson's life. The Swede's thoughtful glance swept over the gelding. He found the small Anchor brand on the neck but this meant nothing in Cashtown. Anchor was beyond the high plateau country, almost at the border. The unveiled suspicion behind the Swede's eyes told plainly something was wrong in Cashtown, some factor that kept unrest alive.

The smith's hand crept over the horse, testing its muscles. He asked, "Ride far?"

Frank smiled over the man's attempted subtlety. "The name's Frank Ude. No one's following my backtrail. At least none close enough to catch up."

It was on his mind to ask if the Swede knew Emmett, if he knew anything about the raid on the Cash horses, or that Ed Rambaut was dead. Then looking at the Swede's face a warning quickly stopped his questions. There ought to be law in this town, but it didn't seem in evidence. Or maybe the law was all one-sided. He asked presently, "Can a good hand find a job on this range?"

Swenson kept on studying

Union to Meet Lion Officials

EL DORADO (AP)—Representatives of about 350 members of the striking International Operating Engineers Local 381 and the Lion Oil Co., a division of Monsanto Chemical Co., were scheduled to meet here today.

The meeting was the first reported attempt in about two weeks to settle the 12-week-old walkout at Lion's refinery here. Lion officials have reported that operations at the plant resumed some time ago with supervisory personnel.

Amateurs bought 75 per cent of the paint used in the United States in 1955.

Frank. What he found graded up rather high in his estimation. A tall, rangy man with lean hips and a straight, straight shoulders. A trail-dusted drifter with a tight jaw and clear eyes, perhaps a little harder than an honest man possessed, but this firmness of character was what Cashtown needed. If the stranger's gunhand was as swift as he suspected Swenson was ready to recommend a job.

"It just could be you'd fit," he decided. "Ever work for a woman?"

He saw the frail smile vanish from Frank's face. Swenson read behind this man's carefully worn mask. At some time a woman had got beneath his outer callousness and left her claws in tender flesh. Swede thought: "She's maybe busted you up too much for salivating. Or maybe you weren't no good in the first place."

A faint unbending of Frank's mouth wiped away his first displeasure. "I won't work for an outfit where there's a woman. The gelding don't take to them, either. Don't cotton to women bossing him."

The Swede shook the oily sweat off his forehead and grinned lopsidedly.

"Women're getting pesky on this range, same as on any other. Let me think about it, stranger."

Frank watched him lift the gelding's right forefoot, sensing the admiration this man felt for his horse. Satisfied the Swede was a master of his profession he swung away.

The smell of deep-fries drifting between buildings reminded him he was hungry. He found the restaurant a few doors down the false-fronted block: Cashtown Restaurant. He leaned his shoulder point against the slab-board wall while he built himself a smoke, considering the town.

The slim man was still leaning against the front of the furniture store, watching with an expectant gaze. Frank turned his attention to the Corbin House. He thought: "What'll be coming out of there that's so interesting? Or will it be entering?"

Says Smoking Doesn't Hurt Healthy Man

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Cigarette smoking doesn't harm the mechanics of breathing in healthy persons, and may even help, two Boston physicians said today.

But smoking usually does have adverse effects on persons with heart or lung disease, they said.

Preliminary results of the smoking study were described today to the National Tuberculosis Assn. by Doctors Ernst O. Attinger, research fellow in medicine, and Dr. Maurice S. Segal, clinical professor of medicine, Tufts University School of Medicine.

They measured the rate of air flow and air pressures in the lungs both before and after people smoked one or two cigarettes.

Normal persons showed no significant change in the elasticity of the lungs or in mechanical resistance to the movement of air on taking or expelling a breath. There appeared to be some improvements in certain aspects of lung ventilation, Attinger and Segal said.

But in persons with heart or lung ailments, there was usually an impairment of the mechanics of breathing. It might be only temporary, the physicians said.

Polluted air must take some of the blame for the soaring rates of lung cancer, although smoking may be related to the rise also, said Dr. Leonard Greenburg, commissioner of New York City's Department of Air Pollution Control.

There is good evidence that cancer-causing chemicals come from exhausts of autos and other engines, he said.

Editors Pick Democrats in Missouri

By JACK BELL
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri claimed new attention today as a battleground in the presidential race with 13 of 17 newspaper editors reporting they believe the Democratic nominee will wrest the state from President Eisenhower in November.

Thirty-eight of 41 Kansas editors predicted Eisenhower will carry their state, two wouldn't guess on the general election outcome and one who listed himself as an "Independent Republican" said he thinks a Democrat will win in Kansas.

This sampling of opinion in the homeland of former President Harry S. Truman and in Eisenhower's adopted state brought to the surface strong opinions that Adlai E. Stevenson will be the Democratic nominee to oppose Eisenhower in a re-run of the 1952 campaign.

It also disclosed among Missouri editors staunch backing for the dark horse candidacy for the Democratic nomination of Sen. Stuart Symington of their state.

Of the 17 Missouri editors who participated in the survey, 14 said they favor Symington for the nomination. The senator is expected to receive "favorite son" backing from the Missouri delegation at the party's state convention next week.

Despite their support for Symington, eight of the Missouri editors thought Stevenson would win the nomination. Seven picked Symington and two Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

Among those who didn't prefer Symington was one who listed himself as an independent politically and voted for Stevenson. Another said he was a Democrat and favored Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio. Another, a Democrat, reported he was undecided.

Some local political experts said the poll of editors was not necessarily representative of general opinion in Missouri. These analysts said a majority of the editors had forecast a Democratic victory in Missouri in 1952. Eisenhower carried the state by about 30,000 votes then.

Kansas editors generally discounted any widespread farm revolt in their state. They expressed the opinion, however, that Eisenhower's margin would be far short of the 343,000 votes he registered above Stevenson's total in the state in 1952.

Thirty Kansas editors said flatly they think the Democrats will pick Stevenson. Four thought the nominee might be Symington, three felt Harriman would be the man, three had no opinion and one plunked for Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

As for their preference for an opponent for Eisenhower, the Kansas editors — almost all of them Republican — are divided at 14 for Stevenson and 14 who had no choice. Six favored Symington, three Lausche and two each voted for Harriman and Kefauver.

Participants in the survey are editors of daily papers which are members of The Associated Press. They were here attending annual meetings of their state associations.

Court Upholds PSC Action

ITTLE ROCK (AP)—Pulaski Circuit Judge J. Mitchell Cockrill ruled today that the Public Service Commission acted within its authority in assigning Emerson, in Columbia County, to the Southwest Arkansas Telephone Cooperative.

The PSC order was issued June 16, 1955.

The Commission also authorized T. H. and Ray Bradley to sell their phone system in Emerson to the cooperative.

In a petition to the court, the city had favored cancellation of the Bradley's franchise and assignment to the Telephone Co. Judge Cockrill dismissed the petition.

An estimated 27,000 Americans went blind in 1955.

Adlai and Estes to Appear on Same Program

By DOUBLAS B. CORNELL

MIAMI, Fla. — Sen. Estes Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson teams up at the same microphone last night to whack at the administration, tip-toe around any personal clash and tell the nation why they want to be president.

Their offhand chat was an amiable renewal of campaigns they'll wage separately through Florida for the state's presidential preference votes next Tuesday. The prize is 28 ballots at the Democratic National Convention. A week later, in California, Stevenson and Kefauver again compete for 68 convention votes.

The Democratic rivals didn't really flare up once in their two-man political seminar. They did bristle a bit, with restrained politeness, on whether Kefauver has a record of absenteeism in the U. S. Senate.

Kefauver said he was a bit "shocked" for Stevenson had mentioned it some time ago. Stevenson said it was only in response to some questions and he said sorry if he had offended the senator from Tennessee.
